

Juan Carlos Campaña Naranja

Teaching areas:
Economics

Email:
jcampana@nebrija.es

He holds a PhD in Economics (qualification: Outstanding Cum Laude and International Doctor Mention) from the University of Zaragoza since September 2018 and accredited by ANECA as Assistant Professor Doctor in Social and Legal Sciences since February 2019.

Currently, he is Researcher - Professor in the Department of Business Administration at Nebrija University in Madrid. Previously, he was part of the University of Zaragoza (Zaragoza campus) as Associate Professor (November 2018 - August 2019) and as Predoctoral Researcher in Training (September 2015 to September 2018), performing his duties in the Department of Economic Analysis of the Faculty of Economics and Business of that University. His research papers have been published in high impact journals (JCR): Feminist Economics, Journal of Development Studies and Applied Economics Letters.

Research Areas: Microeconomics and, in particular, Family and Population Economics, with specific interests in gender differences in Time Uses.

Nebrija
Business School